Generic compact spaces

Wiesław Kubiś

Institute of Mathematics, Academy of Sciences of the Czech Republic, Žitná
25, 115 67 Praha 1, Czech Republic
`kubis@math.cas.cz`

Session: 9. General forms of self-similarity in algebra and topology

We shall present a procedure of constructing certain compact Hausdorff spaces as limits of "random" inverse sequences. The spaces obtained by this way are self-similar in the sense that they have arbitrarily small pieces homeomorphic to the entire space. As one of the applications, we shall describe the well-known hereditarily indecomposable chainable continuum, the pseudo-arc.